

The Arkansas Gazette was outraged Wednesday on discovering that an important Eastern newspaper had published an editorial siding with Hope and against Little Rock in the matter of the proposed jet bomber base.

Inadvertently, of course, the Gazette's outburst disclosed that the domestic fight going on in Arkansas over the push Air Force project which aims to run up a federal tax bill of between 50 and 75 million dollars to change the geography of Little Rock is now spreading to the politically-powerful East.

The newspaper whose editorial inked the Gazette is the Springfield (Mass.) Morning Union. Springfield has a population of 162,399, and the Union's circulation is 78,882 — which gives Hope an advocate the equal of our foe, the Gazette. Naturally the Little Rock promoters are vastly disturbed.

Here is the Arkansas Gazette's piece fronting for the boys:

In a comment dealing with high taxes in general and the soon-to-be-building Arkansas Air Force facility specifically, the Morning Union quotes a Mr. MacDonald of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers to the effect that the time has come for a concerted "holier" about taxes. It then continues with the following weird and wonderful version of the Hope vs. Jacksonville case:

"We have come to a pretty pass during the last decade under the 'tax, spend, elect' philosophy, and the time has come to call a halt to waste and senseless spending for the sake of spending. As Mr. MacDonald said, 'We have arrived at the point where the Air Force has announced that it will spend more than 50 million dollars to move a base from Hope, Ark., to the vicinity of Little Rock in the same state so that the operating personnel may enjoy the superior advantages of life near a large town.'"

All this, of course, is a gruesomely garbled version of the facts in the case. Actually, housing was a relatively secondary issue in the location of the bomber base and there was never any plan to "move" the Hope base to Little Rock.

I submit that a Massachusetts newspaper operating 1,500 miles away has stated the facts more truthfully than has Arkansas' morning state daily writing about its own town.

The Springfield Union's editorial is not at all "garbled," and Mr. MacDonald, of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers is eminently correct when he says the Arkansas jet bomber base project is in effect a proposal to move facilities now existing at Hope to a new location at Little Rock.

Of course the military folks don't intend to physically move our hangar and concrete runways. They mean simply to abandon them and spend 50 to 75 millions of the taxpayers' money duplicating them on the outskirts of Little Rock, 125 miles away — a matter of 18 minutes, jet-flying-time.

More Support in House for Tax Slash

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-five House members have joined in an attempt to force a vote on a bill to reduce income tax rates 10 percent on July 1 — six months ahead of the date now scheduled.

They are members who, up to today, had signed a petition to bypass the House Rules Committee and bring the tax cut bill to the House floor despite opposition of the GOP House leadership. The rules group has bottled up the bill since mid-February, when the Ways and Means Committee approved it.

Without rules committee clearance, the bill cannot now come before the House except under procedure leaving it wide open to changes. Its backers don't want to a petition to circumvent the rules group and force House consideration under procedure barring amendments.

To be effective, such a petition requires 218 signatures, a majority of the full House membership. Some Republican members claim their leaders are exerting pressure to prevent GOP members from signing. However, 22 of the first 25 signers are Republicans.

Despite efforts to clamp air-tight secrecy on such petitions, the names of the signers became known today.

The secrecy rule dates back to February, 1922, when Speaker John Nance Garner ruled that the names of signers of discharge petitions should not be disclosed until the required 218 are obtained.

The rule providing for discharge petitions does not specifically require secrecy, but Garner interpreted it that way.

Berserk Tinsmith Butchers and Shoots to Death Seven Members of Family, Then Kills Self

President Asks Communists to Unite All Korea

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower called upon the Communists today to follow up a hoped-for truce in Korea with steps to unify that war-ravaged country and to bring a true peace to all Asia.

His words appeared to set the broad policy of his administration for a political settlement for the Far East.

He discussed the subject tersely, in his address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, as an element in his challenge to the Kremlin to put an end to all great differences between the Communist and free worlds.

"The first great step along this way," the President said, "must be the conclusion of an honorable armistice in Korea."

"It should mean — no less importantly — an end to the direct and indirect attacks upon the security of Indochina and Malaya. For any armistice in Korea that merely released aggressive armies to attack elsewhere would be a fraud."

"We seek, throughout Asia as throughout the world, a peace that is true and total."

At present the only subject involved in prospective negotiation between the United Nations and the Red Chinese-North Koreans is an end to the fighting.

It was disclosed last night that instructions have been sent to Gen. Mark Clark on what to tell the Reds in reply to their proposal for a resumption of the long-stalled truce talks.

"It is expected that a truce will be achieved if the Communists will agree to some kind of prisoner of war exchange which will allow eventual freedom to captives who resist being sent home forcibly."

If a truce agreement is reached, terms previously worked out provide for a conference for settlement of political questions — an outstanding issue being the future political makeup of Korea.

The peninsula country is now divided by the battle line that lies for the most part a little north of the 38th parallel. The United Nations is committed, as its ultimate objective, to trying to unify the Communist and anti-Communist halves.

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Flanders (R-VT) advocated today that President Eisenhower "grab the initiative" from the Communists "by telling all parties concerned truce terms that would be acceptable in Korea."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called for broad cold war peace talks with Russia.

And, in the wake of disclosure that the U. S. has instructed Gen. Mark Clark what to tell the Reds about a resumption of truce talks, Democratic senators protested against what they called failure to guard against Communist trickery in the exchange of sick prisoners of war.

Officials did not disclose what instructions had been sent to Clark, United Nations commander in the Far East. It was assumed, however, that Clark was authorized to accept the Red proposal for resuming truce negotiations.

There was no immediate word as to when he might suggest the

Now Is Time for Husbands Planning a Vacation to Do a Little Hard Thinking

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Now is the time for all wise husbands planning a vacation trip to do a little hard thinking.

Millions of American couples soon will be hitting the open road for a carefree jaunt together in the old family bus.

Did I say carefree? For the first 50 miles nine out of 10 of these couples will be barking at each other like strange dogs.

"What did I marry — a woman or a department store?" growls the husband.

"Oh, shut up," snaps the wife. "I only packed the things I really need."

But the luggage compartment is so stuffed with bags the door pops open whenever the car hits a bump. And the back seat looks like a rummage sale. Every time the husband puts on the brakes a cascade of clothing, boxes and sacks bangs against his head and

By JAMES CALOGERO

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — A mad tinsmith butchered and shot to death seven and possibly eight members of his family and then killed himself yesterday in a seven-hour slaughter.

Peter Akoulis, 39, took his own life last night as police closed in on him outside his home in neighboring Methuen.

During the death spree, Akoulis is used a carpenter's ax to kill his wife Madeline Akoulis, 32; son Michael, 5; widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Akoulis, 72; brother Alphonse, 32; and two nephews, James, 5, and Paul, 2, both sons of Alphonse.

He killed his brother Raymond, 37, with a blast from a .22-caliber rifle before turning the gun on himself.

A second son, Peter Jr., 9, was missing and feared to be another victim. Akoulis took the boy out of school early in the afternoon.

Police said Akoulis apparently planned the wholesale murders. They said his suicide may have saved the lives of several other relatives living nearby.

Three blood-stained notes were found in the killer's pockets.

"Damn all the rats," one said. "Thanks to the tin gods," said another.

The full contents of the letters were withheld pending a complete investigation.

The bodies of his mother, Alphonse and the latter's two sons were found by Alphonse's wife Claire, 30, when she returned from work in midafternoon to her Lawrence tenement apartment.

She ran from the house screaming: "My family is dead. My whole family is dead."

The four had been struck with ax blows which penetrated the skulls.

The bodies of the killer's wife and son Michael — butchered in the same fashion — were found later.

Anti-Blacks Ahead in South Africa Vote

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister, Daniel Malan's Nationalist government surged to victory renewed power and a boost in majority in official returns early today from South Africa's parliamentary elections.

By dawn, Malan's men had captured at least five seats in the 159-member lower chamber from the opposition United party, and had not lost a single place of their own.

Returns from yesterday's voting gave this position at 7 a. m. — Nationalists 18, United party 38, Labor party 4, undecided 98.

Of the races still unreported, the Nationalists were considered certain to win 61 while the opposition could count on only 15 as safe constituencies. The other 20 are "marginals" — hoped for by both sides.

With the trend in the marginal constituencies so far all to the government, the Nationalists had high hopes of picking up at least half the 20 doubtfuls still out.

This would give them a majority of 19 in the new lower chamber, as compared with a 13-seat margin in the Union's last assembly.

The first seats captured by the Nationalists from the opposition were Bloemfontein city, Vasco, Brakpan, Pretoria City and Port Elizabeth North.

Twelve Prescott Youths Enjoy First Train Ride

Twelve excited youngsters, members of a Prescott Kindergarten class, directed by Mrs. Florence Ambrose, sister-in-law of Kenneth Ambrose of Hope, arrived here at noon today aboard a Missouri Pacific passenger, ending their first train ride.

From the depot they went to the Hope Bottling Company to see how Coca Colas are made. Other points visited were Fair Park and naturally a local Dairy Queen.

They were to be picked up by their parents between 4 and 5 p. m., for the return trip to Prescott by auto.

Pro-Peronists Burn and Sack His Opposition

By FRED L. STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Rioting pro-Peron mobs stormed unopposed through the Argentine capital last night and early today, burning and sacking opposition centers in a violent aftermath to a bombing at a rally addressed by President Juan D. Peron.

The government announced that six persons were killed and 92 injured in the two bomb explosions that stamped the crowd gathered yesterday in the city's central Plaza de Mayo. Peron was not hurt.

Headquarters of all Argentine opposition parties — except the Communists — went up in flames before the raging mobs that chanted "Viva Peron" as they looted and burned. The fashionable Jockey Club, center of Argentine high society, was also put to the torch.

The government announced that a North American citizen was among several persons arrested for questioning in connection with the bombing. It identified him as Esteban Jacyni of Mekimer, N. Y., an elephant and monkey trainer with a touring circus.

In addition to destroying the Jockey Club, the rioters fired the headquarters of the Radical, Socialist and Democratic-Conservative parties and wrecked restaurants and bars before some semblance of quiet was restored to the center of the city.

Violence and looting continued early today, however, in nearby residential areas.

Police made little effort to stem the mobs' fury.

Spring's Kiss Like Face Slap to Midwest

By United Press

Spring's gentle kiss turned into a slap in the face for Midwesterners today as cold, wet weather prevailed in large areas in the central states.

But the snow and windstorms that whipped the country yesterday were abating or subsiding into snow showers and winter-like gusts.

Rain, snow and strong winds of about 35 miles an hour were general early today over much of the Great Lakes region south to the Ohio River Valley. A cold air mass marching eastward brought scattered showers from Virginia to the Gulf States, and rain was forecast for the New York area.

Freezing temperatures and snow flurries were general in the Northern Plains, Rocky Mountains and parts of Iowa. Most of the rest of the nation could expect generally fair weather, except for some fog and rain in California.

Yesterday, in the fourth week of spring, April showers suddenly turned into snowstorms and spring breezes were transformed into howling gales.

A near-blizzard was reported in Western Iowa and as much as 10 to 14 inches of wet snow fell in parts of South Dakota. Snow also plastered Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Bell May Hike Rate Request by $1.5 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Southwest Bell Telephone Company may add 1.5 million dollars to its rate increase request of 2.3 millions annually.

The new figure, 3.8 millions, was injected here yesterday into the Arkansas Public Service Commission hearing of Bell's request for the original increase, which it already has put into effect under bond, guaranteeing that refunds will be made if the PSC disapproves the rate hike.

Edward L. Wright, Little Rock special counsel for Bell, told the Commission he believed an increase of at least 1.5 million dollars should be authorized in addition to the original request.

Bell could hike its request under a companion application to the rate measure in which the Commission asks that it be authorized to charge unspecified "fair and equitable" rates.

Company fiscal experts said the total 3.8 millions would give the firm about 7.5 per cent return on its investment as of Dec. 31, 1952.

Wright's testimony on the suggested increase was given after two other Bell witnesses said they believed the Company should be permitted a return higher than the traditional 6 per cent. They argued that the firm needed the higher return to compete for investment capital in the present inflationary period.

Consumption of Cotton Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census bureau reported today cotton consumption for the period of March 1-28 averaged 38,600 bales for each working day.

This compared with an average 36,763 bales for the corresponding period a year ago, and with 38,931 for the Feb. 1-28 period this year.

The daily average consumption of lint was 4,444 bales compared with 3,943 a year ago and 4,423 for the March period this year.

Consumption of cotton in the March period totaled 772,476 bales compared with 765,779 in the February period, and with 735,251 in the March period last year.

In consuming establishments, 1,904,751 bales of lint compared with 1,639,947 a year ago.

In public storage and at compresses, 8,402,106 bales of lint compared with 3,812,794 a year ago.

The daily cotton consumption average during the March period this year included:

In cotton growing states 35,094 bales compared with 36,014 in the February period and 34,300 during the March period last year.

Cotton consumption during the 8-month period ending March 28 included:

In cotton-growing states 5,816,983 bales compared with 5,734,500 a year ago, and in New England states 403,450 bales compared with 393,020.

Cotton on hand March 28 included:

In consuming establishments, in cotton growing states, 1,703,082 bales, compared with 1,473,733 a year ago.

$105,000 Suit Is Renewed

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — A new trial was ordered yesterday in a damage suit brought by a California Negro attorney against three bus companies, charging he was forced to give up a seat on a bus here.

L. H. Spears asked $105,000 damage from Arkansas Motor Coaches Inc., Transcontinental Bus System and Santa Fe Transportation Co. He said he was forced to move from the front of a bus to a rear seat as he traveled through here enroute to New Orleans.

Federal Judge John E. Miller, who ordered the new trial, said he erred by including "if any" in his charge to the jury last week. Miller told the jury that Spears' civil rights were violated and it should return a verdict for the Los Angeles Negro against Arkansas Motor Coaches and award damages "if any" to compensate Spears for the humiliation and disgrace he suffered "if any."

Miller last week dismissed the suits against Transcontinental and Santa Fe.

Sick Prisoners Arrive Tonight in Kawsong

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — The first group of Allied sick and wounded from North Korean prison stocks arrived tonight in Kawsong, just six miles from freedom. Communist staff officers said half of the first 100 to be traded Monday are non-Koreans.

Allied reconnaissance planes spotted the first Red Convoy moving into the advance Communist base at Kawsong just before dark, the Fifth Air Force said.

The trucks which entered Kawsong actually were the first two convoys, which had joined a few miles to the north. A third convoy last was reported 70 air miles northeast of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

U. N. officials were hopeful that as many as 50 Americans will be freed at Pummunjom Monday. The Communists have promised a total of 120 Americans are among the 600 U. N. prisoners to be returned this week.

The Reds said they would reveal Sunday the exact number of prisoners from the U. S. and other Allied nations to be freed Monday.

For the second day, Allied reconnaissance pilots reported the Reds were using an attack-force route of POW convoys to shift streams of Communist supply trucks headed for the front.

At a staff officers' meeting Thursday the Allies informed the Reds that the first group of Communist sick and wounded would leave Pusan aboard a 12-car train Sunday noon and arrive at Munsan early Monday.

Red staff officers again asked for renewal of full-scale armistice talks, suspended by the United Nations last Oct. 31. The U. N. plan not replied to the request.

In Washington Wednesday, officials said Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, had been instructed what to tell the Reds. Details were secret, but it was assumed Clark would accept Red proposals for resuming the talks.

At the staff officers' meeting, the U. N. Command, handed over a list of 12 U. N. officers authorized to witness the exchange of sick and wounded and sign receipts for prisoners returned to the Allies.

The session lasted an hour and eight minutes.

The Reds have promised to exchange 600 disabled Allied POWs at the rate of 100 daily. The U. N. agreed to return about 5,000 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 a day.

However, an Allied officer said the U. N. may increase the number of Chinese being sent back to about 930.

"There is nothing in the agreement to stop us from giving back more, if we have them to trade," the officers said. "We have Chinese from 900 sick and wounded Chinese in the Pusan area and there is a good chance we may return that many."

Refugee Is Now Very Successful

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Leon Jolson, who came to this country in 1947 with only a few worldly possessions, is now a very successful man.

Yesterday, Jolson, an American citizen for a year and president of a multimillion-dollar firm, set up a $20,000 foundation "to promote understanding between all races, creeds and nationalities."

The foundation was the latest move in Jolson's success story, which started with Jolson, a Polish wife living on $80 a month, and a welfare agent after arrival here from their native Poland.

Jolson soon earned his first money by repairing sewing machines in the garment district. Then he opened a small store, selling new and used sewing machines.

He saved his money and imported four Nechil sewing machines from Italy. They caught on, and Jolson set up the Nechil Sewing Machine Sales Corp. This firm assembles its own machines, using some parts from Italy. It has a network of 1,000 dealers.

Jolson, who has been the Nechil distributor before, became an American citizen a year ago yesterday.

It was to mark this event that he set up the fund, to be known as the Nechil foundation. The 40-year-old Jolson, who still has his concentration camp scar tattooed on his arm, said the foundation would aid organizations which have programs helping to bring people together on a community level and help remove barriers between races and nations.

Plenty, if he'll just show a little forthright. Such as:

1. Use common sense. Tell her marriage is a 50-50 proposition, and that you ought to be allowed to take a suit for every dress she wants to bring along. However, as the average man only has about three suits, this argument usually falls flat on its face. She goes right on stuffing her wardrobe into suitcases.

2. Wait until she has packed everything portable except the television set. Obviously, all that junk won't fit in your present car. So call up an automobile agency and trade in your old car for a larger model. Gestures like this are expensive, but they always impress wives.

3. Take your wife to the nearest postoffice, paste a sheet of three-cent stamps on her forehead, and mail her to your destination. Then go home and pack leisurely by yourself in peace.

4. Try an entirely new kind of vacation. Surprise your wife by telling her you're going to take her to a nudist colony.

Then you can simply hand her an envelope instead of a suitcase, and say: "Start packing, honey. And don't start yelping about not having anything decent to wear. All you'll need is sunburn lotion, and we'll buy it when we get there."

talks he reopened or what conditions he would lay down.

Flanders' suggestion that Eisenhower should define the terms of an acceptable truce came shortly before the President was due to deliver a major address on foreign policy to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Flanders suggested that the President should first consult with congressional leaders on exactly what "the United Nations" and that means the United States — police approached as the brothers sat talking in Raymond's car. Both died shortly afterward in a hospital.

Both murder weapons had been purchased early in the day in Lawrence. The ax was found in a paper bag under the seat of the automobile.

Peter lost his job with a boiler-making firm last week. Co-workers described him as soft-spoken and mild-mannered. However, they said he appeared to have a "persecution complex."

"He seemed to feel that the whole world was against him," one told police.

Malvern Youth Injured by Truck

MALVERN (UP) — Brinda Horne, 6, was struck and critically injured by a pick-up truck when she ran across a road to catch a school bus near here today.

Officers were holding the driver of the truck, Alvin Alton of route three, on an open charge.

Police said the accident occurred would accept as true terms in Korea.

"After they have agreed on this, the President then should tell Congress and the world publicly what he wants," Flanders said.

Flanders said he has no information on what truce terms would be acceptable to the President and the U. N.

His own ideas for an end to the Korean War call for: (1) withdrawal of the Chinese Communists from Korea and establishment of a neutral zone about 40 miles deep along the Yalu River; (2) enforcement of this neutral border by a commission of Asians; (3) rehabilitation of Korea; (4) holding of free elections for all of Korea after the period of rebuilding.

"I think some proposal along these lines would cover all of our pledges from a moral standpoint," the senator said. "It would protect the people rather than the powers in Korea."

Sen. Humphrey, a foreign relations committee member, declared this country "must maintain its defenses, bolster the North Atlantic Treaty and be on guard against Communist trickery and skulduggery."

Grunewald Admits Gift to Friend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry W. Grunewald told House tax investigators today he once gave a television set to General Service Administrator Jess Larson "because he was a friend of mine."

Grunewald, a shadowy background figure in a number of congressional investigations, was back for another round of questioning before a Ways and Means subcommittee investigating influence peddling and tax frauds in the internal revenue service.

Grunewald had testified previously that high tax officials were recipients of expensive television sets, air conditioners and other gifts which he said he gave for "purely sentimental reasons."

Bathers to Decide on Negro Players

HOPE SPRINGS (AP) — Top brass of the Hot Springs baseball club scheduled a meeting today, apparently to decide whether they will go through with their controversial play to use two Negro pitchers.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, ruled yesterday that the Hot Springs Bathers can play the Negroes in the Cotton States League if they want to, and that the Class C circuit can't kick the team out for it. Hot Springs officials said last night they would meet at an unannounced time today to "give some consideration to the baseball situation in Hot Springs."

There was speculation that the club, having won its point in the struggle with the remainder of the league, now might grant the Negro players' request that they be assigned to some other team rather than to risk dissolution of the league.

Hot Springs previously offered a compromise — to use the Negroes, Jim and Leander Tugerson of Florence, Fla., only at home or in parks where the home team had no objection.

This apparently was not satisfactory with the other league members, who voted on April 8 to forfeit Hot Springs' franchise in what CSI President Al Haraway described as "a matter of survival of the league."

Haraway said at the time that most other clubs would quit the league if the Bathers used the Tugerson brothers, who were signed as free agents after having suffered with Indianapolis of the Negro American League.

Hot Springs appealed the ouster vote to Trautman, who overruled the league in his decision yesterday.

Trautman said the matter of using Negro players was one for the club itself to decide, adding: "The employment of Negro players has never been, now is now, prohibited by any provision in the major-minor league agreement."

Haraway's only comment on the Trautman ruling was that the league would not appeal to the National Association's Executive Committee, as it could under the rules.

Officials of other teams declined comment.

In addition to Hot Springs, the Cotton States League includes Pine Bluff in El Dorado, Ark.; Jackson, Greenville, Natchez and Meridian, Miss., and Monroe, La.

College Game May Open Local Baseball Season

It appeared almost certain today that a baseball game between Henderson State Teachers College and Southern State College would be the curtain raiser for the local 1953 season.

Coach Duke Wells of Henderson and Coach Sam Bailey of Southern State have both expressed a desire to schedule a game for Legion Park. All that remains is for the two coaches to agree on a date and this will in all probability be done tomorrow when Southern State journeys to Arkadelphia for an AIC game with the Reddies.

Post Commander Teddy Jones who has been in communication with the two coaches indicated the game might have to be played earlier than originally planned because Henderson closes the season on May 12.

Coach Wells in a letter to Jones stated: "We would like very much to play Southern State at Hope but unless we can get together before May 12, it will be impossible to do so. Our season closes then and we are not allowed to play any games after the regular season is over."

In a telephone conversation with Coach Bailey of Southern State this morning Jones indicated that the

Tulsa Hands Porks Another Clubbing

TULSA (AP) — Arkansas' Razorbacks, who probably will be glad to get out of Oklahoma, will meet the University of Tulsa in a single baseball game today.

Tulsa beat the Prokers, 18-6 and 9-2, in a doubleheader yesterday to make it four losses in a row for Arkansas. The Razorbacks went down before Oklahoma A&M Monday and again Tuesday.

Arkansas committed nine errors in the two games yesterday—lacking only one of matching their total output of hits.

coach assured him that he would make every effort to close out a date with Henderson tomorrow in Arkadelphia. Southern State definitely wants to play in Hope and realizes that Hope is one of the best baseball towns in Southwest Arkansas. The Muleriders are anxious to come to Hope and help the Legion open the local season.

Coach Bailey further stated: "There is considerable local interest among fans for the Henderson—Magnolia game to be brought to Hope."

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, N.Y. —The stock market made quiet progress today for the third consecutive session. The advance was of a limited nature with gains largely restricted to fractions. Only occasionally did a plus sign reach a point or better. Losses were likewise small. Steels and motors made by far the best showing with railroads joining in on the upside. The aircrafts were higher also along with oils and rubbers. Other sections of the list were mixed with distillers backward.

NEW YORK COTTON

preted it that way, and so have his successors. In April 1934, Speaker Henry Rainey said the reason for secrecy was that "publishing the names in the newspaper invites people generally throughout the U. S. to bring pressure on those who have not signed the petition to sign it, and pressure upon those who have signed the petition to take their names off."

A member may remove his name after signing such petitions. He may publicize the fact that he signed, but is not supposed to tell who else signed.

Some members reject the theory that the secrecy rule is necessary to avert "pressure". They point out that members of Congress are subjected to constant pressures from lobbyists, who are permitted to operate freely.

Army Cutting Down Draft Requirements

WASHINGTON, D.C. —The army is cutting down its draft requirements for June—32,000 men compared with the 53,000 quota for each of the preceding four months. The lower quota, set yesterday, was anticipated. The Defense Department had said the higher draft calls in the early part of this year were occasioned by the release of large numbers of men called in during the first months of the Korean conflict. Men are expected to flow more evenly into the services hereafter, unless the international situation changes. The June quota brings to 1,446,490 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since September, 1950, when selective service was resumed.

U. S. Sabres Bag One Red Bomber

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL, Friday (AP)—From 300 to 350 Chinese Reds attacked Pork Chop Ridge and a nearby outpost on the Western Front about midnight Thursday. The battle still was raging early today.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said frontline reports indicate the attack now was slackening but there was no information whether any of the Allies positions had been overrun.

Pork Chop is less than two miles west of Old Baldy, guardian outpost on the northern invasion route to Seoul, seized by the Chinese in a heavy attack about a month ago.

Front reports said from 150 to 175 Communists slammed at Pork Chop, while an equal number attacked an outpost at the base of T-Bone Hill, just west of Pork Chop.

The flareup of ground fighting came after a day of strenuous air action in which U. S. Sabre jets shot down two Red MIGs and damaged three. Fighter-bombers blasted red frontline positions and communications in North Korea.

For the second day Allied reconnaissance pilots reported trucks moving almost bumper to bumper on North Korean roads down which the Reds are sending sick and wounded U.N. soldiers for exchange at Panmunjom.

On the ground front Chinese Communists struck twice in Central Korea but both attacks were thrown back.

South Koreans defending battered Texas Hill smashed an attack by 30 to 120 Reds while American infantrymen battled at hand-grenade range for an hour before stopping a smaller Chinese force on Jackson Heights, the Eighth Army

Ammo Deal May Lead to Ex-President

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON, D.C. —Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) hinted today that top-level policy makers all the way up to the White House under Harry S. Truman may yet be found to share some responsibility for ammunition shortages in Korea.

Byrd based his position on the argument that a directive from the secretary of defense—then Gen. George C. Marshall—on Sept. 27, 1950, amounted to a virtual "slow-down" order to the armed services in the war effort. That was just three months after the Korean War began.

"I assume that policy was not decided without the White House being consulted," Byrd said in an oblique reference to former President Truman. "We will do all we can to get at the facts."

He and Truman were long at odds politically.

The Virginian made his statement in an interview before a Senate armed services subcommittee resumed its inquiry today into the shortages. The witness called for questioning was Lt. Gen. W.B. Palmer, in charge of Army supply.

Although robins were once forest birds, many of them now build their nests in cities.

Thirteen Reds were reported killed and wounded in the Jackson Heights battle.

A California Sabre jet pilot shot down his ninth MIG in a battle 40,000 feet over the Suhoi Reservoir near the Manchurian border. He was Capt. Joseph Mc Connell of Apple Valley, Calif.

Can't Expect Sensations in 3 Months

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one could in fairness expect President Eisenhower, in his less than three months in office, to produce any sensations in the cold war with Russia or the hot war in Korea. He has produced none, and can print to some obvious reasons. In Korea, for instance, where the troops have been tied down by winter weather, the weather which permits larger maneuver is only just arriving.

The Communists could forestall any bold plans the President has, if he has any, by demonstrating they seriously want peace and honestly agreeing to settlements in Korea and elsewhere. No doubt they could forestall him for months or longer by pretending to want settlements. He would want to exhaust every reasonable means before going further. That may be one of their reasons for talking peace now.

But if the Communists play it phony it's anybody's guess who the winner will be. By pretending peace is close and possible they might lead the Allies into slowing down armaments while they build up their own strength.

But if the Communists lost their own momentum during prolonged discussions while the Allies kept arming, no matter how close peace seemed, the West might have the edge.

Eisenhower has not taken any publicly known steps which are basically different from the strategy and programs laid down in the Truman-Acheson "containment" policy so roundly criticized by Republicans in the campaign. But Secretary of State Dulles recently claimed a strong position taken by the Eisenhower administration was partly the cause of the Communist peace moves.

He cited (1) Eisenhower's order to the Seventh Fleet off Formosa, put there by former President Truman, to let Chiang Kai-shek attack the Chinese mainland; (2) a joint French-American warning to the Communists not to start new Asian attacks; (3) the building up of South Korean forces, which was being done under Truman; and (4) plans to increase aid to Indochina, an aid program which had been carried out under Truman.

Chiang had been raiding the mainland in a small way while the fleet was in Formosa waters. No sizable Chiang raids have been reported since the order. This was no surprise, since it was understood he needed more time and help before he could be much beyond a nuisance to the mainland.

The joint French-American warning might be considered new. But the rest of what Dulles cited was simply addition to the policy laid down and carried out under the Truman administration.

It's possible the points he mentioned were factors in inducing the Communists to talk peace, even if they never go beyond mumbling about it. It's also possible they had other and more compelling reasons, not now known.

But one fact is clear: The Russians and after them the Chinese have stated a peace offensive. Dulles has repeatedly emphasized the importance of psychological warfare against the Communists, the kind that would win this country friends and push the Communists into a position of not knowing what to expect next.

But the Communists by their sudden peace talks may be playing

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

ELLERTON was still staring at me, breathing hard. "I said you got a big mouth," he said. "I don't like big mouths. I don't like big-mouthed punks who cause trouble. Now take some advice; get in our way and you'll think you're in front of a steamroller. Now clear out. And don't think you aren't lucky to be walking out of here."

"Beat it," he said.

I walked across to the door, aware of the drumming silence behind me, and the eyes probing into my back. At the door I turned and looked back at them. "By the way, do you know a guy named Tommy Weissman?" I said. "I understand he used to hang out in these parts."

"Yeah, I knew Tommy," Ellerton said in a slow, puzzled voice. "He was a good boy. I hear he got shot up by some private cop in Philly last month."

"That's right," I said. "He wasn't really so good after all. I thought he was tough, I'll give him that." Suddenly I realized how childish I was being. I was a stupid bragging ass. Why couldn't I keep my big mouth shut?

"You were the guy, eh, the private cop?" Ellerton said slowly.

It was too late to deny it. "That's right," I said pleasantly. I felt a little better at the expressions that came onto their faces. What's the point of taking jerks like Tommy Weissman if you can't brag about it occasionally? Especially to their old friends and fellow hoodlums.

They didn't say anything, but simply looked me over with eyes that had become thoughtful and businesslike. I wanted to them and walked out.

Downstairs I caught a cab and went back to the Star. I found a bar across the street from it and had a few drinks. Everything was breaking beautifully, I thought. After all, I was still alive and that item belonged on the credit side of the ledger. I wrote a note on a paper napkin, a short but eloquent note, to the red-headed dice girl at the Star, and gave a waiter two bucks to deliver it. He came back a few minutes later, nodded at me, winked significantly and made a circle with his thumb and forefinger.

I gathered I was in. The red-head came in around two in the morning, a happy smile on her doll-like face, and wearing a beautifully cut black linen suit and black ankle-strap sandals. The few men who were sitting tiredly at the bar brightened as she sauntered toward me, and their heads pivoted in unison to follow her free-wheeling hips and the flash of her slim, delightfully tanned legs.

I stood as she slid into the booth. "Hi," she said, still wearing her happy babyish smile. "You never came back to finish your game."

The men at the bar went back to their drinks, probably wondering what I had that they didn't.

"I'm glad you missed me," I said. I ordered drinks and lit her cigarette. "What's your name?"

"Margo."

"How are you, Margo? My name is Bill, Bill Canall."

"Oh, an Italian. I like Italians," she smiled innocently. "They're so generous."

"That's just a bad name we picked up," I said. "Seriously, Margo, I'm a private cop. I want to find out who killed Janey Nelson. It's not a free job. It's a personal matter. I liked her, she was a decent kid and I'm going to get the rats who killed her."

"How're you going to do that?"

"I'm not sure. But I'm sure I need help."

"Is that why you wanted to talk to me?"

"Yes. Were you expecting something else?"

She grinned. "I expect just one thing from deals like this, and so far I've never been wrong."

"Well, I'd hate to spoil your average. But, Margo, this isn't my season for fun. I've got just one thing on my mind. That's Janey and her murderers."

"But how can I help you?"

"You can tell me about Janey. You knew her pretty well, didn't you?"

"Sure. You did, too, I thought. 'Maybe I didn't,' I said. Margo stared at me with wide, clear, innocent eyes. "Anyway, I think you can help. How about it?"

"Mister, I don't want to get mixed up in a murder case."

"You won't be mixed up in it," I said. "I didn't know whether or not this was true; it was a chance that I had to take. That she had to take, rather."

"Well, I can tell you what I know about her," Margo said, scratching her head comically with the tip of one finger. "Janey was a good kid, real friendly and generous. But I never quite figured her out. She had a lot of bummy friends, for one thing. Real creeps. For instance, a character around town named Mike Kelly. He's a writer. At least he says he is. None of his stuff gets printed. It's too artistic, or something, he says. Mike Kelly hangs out in an apartment on Sycamore Street, with a crummy bunch of writers, sculptors, painters and people like that. They do more talking than anything else. You know the kind. Tear down the government, kill all the dull slob who have kids and live in the suburbs. That sort of stuff. Janey took me up there a couple of times and it was like walking into a snake pit. She shuddered elegantly and picked up her drink. "Not my kind, I can assure you."

"What was Janey's interest in this bunch?"

"It beats me. But I think that she and Mike Kelly were working together on something."

"Working together on what?"

"It beats me. But they had their heads together a lot."

"Where is this joint of Mike Kelly's?"

She thought hard, running the tip of her small tongue over her lips, and then she came up with an address. I made a note of it in my book.

I said, "Janey and Mort Ellerton were pretty good friends, I understand."

The red-head looked demure. "I wouldn't know, I'm sure," she said. "We don't discuss the boss, eh?"

"I'd rather not," she said. "Mr. Ellerton has been good to me, really. It wouldn't be loyal to talk about him, would it? Also, it wouldn't be smart, and I'm a pretty smart little girl in some ways. Mr. Ellerton doesn't like to be talked about, and it's very dumb to do things Mr. Ellerton doesn't like."

"The point is well taken," I said. "Let's go back to Janey. Anything else you can tell me?"

There wasn't. We talked for ten or fifteen more minutes, but she told me nothing that added anything revealing to my portrait of Janey.

I paid up my bill and offered to give her a lift home. She said that would be fine. We left the bar, again causing a ripple of lively attention from the men sitting there, and outside I flagged a cab. She lived out north, near Belmont Avenue, about a fifteen-minute ride from the Loop. En route, she recaptured some of the wacky gaiety I had noticed in her manner at the dice table. She hummed snatches of songs, chattered irrelevantly and giggled about signboards, the traffic and the weather, and even did a fast little tap dance against the back of the driver's seat.

He glanced lovingly back at us, but when he got a look at the red-head he grinned and turned back to the wheel. She could kick his cab to pieces any time, I thought.

I told him to hold the flag when he got to her address, which was an apartment hotel with a dimly lit lobby. It looked like a place for show people and gamblers, a place where the management didn't care what you did so long as you paid your rent and kept the noise slightly below a college yell. The red-head slid out of the cab, and I escorted her to the entrance of the building. She fished a key from her handbag, gave it to me and I opened the door.

"Call me again?" she said.

"Sure."

She took my lapels in her hands and pulled me gently into the foyer, grinning as if this were a shared and hilarious joke.

"Do you usually find men so stubborn?" I said.

We faced each other in the half-darkness. She was still grinning, and her brown eyes were merry with excitement.

"I like you," she said, and punched me lightly in the chest with her forefinger.

"That's fine, I like you, too. Also, I think you've given me a good lead."

"Oh, that. Think nothing of it. Glad to help." She leaned toward me, still grinning, and I wondered if she had picked up a load before meeting me. She sagged limply against me, and if I hadn't got my arms around her waist she would have slipped to the floor. She was as fluid as water, about as manageable as a piece of string. There was no reality to any of this, nothing but the fragrance of the perfume in her shining red hair, and the unimportant weight of her body in my arms.

"Cut it out!" I said.

She murmured something in a sleepy voice.

Virginia Returns to Democrats

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Virginia's Fifth District returned to its customary Democratic voting ways and elected former Gov. William M. Tuck to Congress in Tuesday's special election.

It was the nation's first election since November in a normally Democratic district that bolted to Eisenhower.

Tuck, 56, who walked out on the national Democratic ticket last fall, trounced Republican Lamar Roes Campbell by about 4,000 votes in a total vote that fell short of 30,000. Tuck's majority was less than the district's usual comfortable margin for Democrats in congressional elections.

Nearly complete returns from all of the district's nine counties and two cities here near the North Carolina border showed 233 of 245 precincts gave Tuck 16,439 to Campbell's 11,942.

Tuck's victory, was hardly a surprise, least of all to the loser, Campbell, a 43-year-old Independent once, Va., political newcomer and like Tuck — a country lawyer.

Tuck and Campbell conceded the election at 9 a. m. yesterday — a good nine hours before the polls closed and anybody started counting the votes. He said he'd made a personal survey and concluded he couldn't win.

Tuck said he plans to go to Washington to take his seat about next Tuesday. His election shaves the Republican majority in the House to 10. When he is seated, the division will be 221 Republicans, 21 Democrats, 1 Independent and 2 vacancies.

He will succeed Rep. Thomas B. Stanley (D-Va.), who resigned from Congress in February to run for governor in the July Democratic primary.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, (UP)—Argentina's armed forces threw their united support behind President Juan D. Peron today in a crucial political showdown with enemies of his regime.

Police expected more than 100,000 Peron supporters to jam the square fronting Casa Rosada government house to hear him address the nation at 3 p. m.

The army, navy and air force in a joint order last night commanded units of the three armed services to attend the huge rally "to testify their solidarity with the president of the republic."

Visiting Around Arkansas BY JOE MARSH

ROSES... From ARKANSAS To CALIFORNIA

May 7-8-9 Little Rock will hold its 5th Annual Rose Festival and choose a queen to take part in the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, California, next New Year's Day. Those fellows in the Young Business Men's Association have done a fine job in making our own Rose Festival an annual event in Arkansas. Californians even like to see how our young men stage a real festival. From Arkansas to California, a rose festival is becoming a part of American life.

And you know, from Arkansas to California, the American brewing industry is a part of American life. Along with my roses I like the fragrant aroma of a cool, foaming glass of beer, either in a friendly cafe or tavern, or in my own rose garden at home.

Arkansan Photographs Convoy

By AL KAFF

AT AN ADVANCE AIR BASE IN KOREA (UP)—A veteran reconnaissance pilot found and photographed a "freedom convoy" carrying sick and wounded Allied prisoners today while Red attack guns fired at him.

1st Lt. Robert L. Smith, 20, of Dermott, Ark., first sighted the convoy about 12:12 p. m. (10:12 p. m. EST Tuesday). It was moving out of the town of Nangung.

"I thought I saw Red markings on a truck," Smith said. "I wasn't sure, so I called my wingman."

The wingman, 2nd Lt. Harley Aylor, 23, of Ashland, Ky., saw the truck almost at the same time.

"I saw markings, but they looked cream-colored to me," Aylor said, "but that might have been caused by the dust."

Smith, a veteran of 97 missions who flies for the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, made four passes over the convoy while Communist anti-aircraft guns fired at him. He called the Red ground fire "intense."

AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

End of Audit Report.

WHAT IS ABC?

The Audit Bureau of Circulations, Chicago, by its own definition is: "A co-operative association of advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers for the verification of circulation of newspaper and periodical members in the United States and Canada."

It is controlled by those who buy advertising (manufacturing, merchandising and service companies, and their agencies rather than those who sell advertising (newspapers and magazines).

COST OF ADVERTISING

Pick up an invoice for newspaper advertising and you will find that you are billed for so many column-inches at so much per inch. That's how it is billed — but that isn't how it is sold.

The price of an inch of advertising is meaningless unless you know what the paper's circulation is. When you know that you know the cost.

The cost of advertising is the cost per inch per thousand circulation. That's the great yardstick by which advertising is bought and sold from coast to coast. The national advertisers call it "the milline" — the cost per line (1/14th of an inch) per million circulation.

Now you know why ABC audits are important. They verify circulation — the factor which is combined with the publisher's charge per inch to establish the advertising cost yardstick.

IT'S CHEAP TODAY

Hope Star's local advertising costs about the same today as in 1929. The rate-per-inch is higher, it is true — but circulation also has increased. Here is the comparison:

	1929	1953
Local "open" rate per inch per thousand	20c	21c

And that's a performance we feel deserves a page advertisement all its own.

Detroit Ford Strike Comes to an End

DETROIT, (UP) — A 14-day strike of 1,500 workers of a Ford Motor Co. parts plant, which had 10,000 assembly line employees, ended the nation, was settled on April 15.

But 5,000 of the laid-off workers had been scheduled to return to work today even before the strike at Monroe, Mich., was settled. In view of the settlement, they were expected to remain on the job.

The settlement was scheduled to be signed by members of United Auto Workers Local 723 at 2 p. m. today and the men were scheduled to return to work in force at midnight tonight.

At Monroe, 45,000 Chrysler Corp. and Dodge Manufacturing Co. employees returned to their jobs when 800 striking truck drivers failed to show up on picket lines. The drivers' strike against Chrysler and Dodge started their walkout Monday.

At Ford's Monroe plant, where 1,500 men had been on strike in protest against an alleged speed-up program for Ford and the UAW, announced they had reached a tentative agreement on work conditions.

Tax Cut Now or Not at All, Says GOP Hea

WASHINGTON, (AP) — House Republican leaders either are going to open the door to a tax cut this year, or they are going to keep it shut.

That much and that they still hope for early tax cuts, was clear after a 2 1/2 hour parley late yesterday of the House GOP Policy Committee.

House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) emerged smiling from the closed-door private session to tell reporters what happened.

The long discussion, he said, had centered on taxes and appropriations. That was all there was to it.

The report was wanted to know a little more. Martin and other GOP leaders have been holding down a firm foot against action now on a bill by Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) to cut income taxes 10 percent starting July 1 instead of the Jan. 1 date now scheduled. When were they going to permit the Reed bill to come to the floor?

Well, Martin said, the discussion of possible budget cuts held out hopes that taxes could be reduced. When a balanced budget is in sight that is to be expected.

Someone wanted to know if a balanced budget is in sight for the year beginning July 1. President Eisenhower has said the budget should be balanced before taxes are cut.
